Convention for the Taking of Comparative Pictures

Before the harvest

Take pictures individually (Control and Treated) from the same distance and with the sunlight illuminating at the same angle. When necessary to compare size difference between the Samples, place a Person* immediately next to the Picture of the Control Sample /Samples and shoot Control Picture(s). Subsequently, place the same person immediately next to the Treated Sample/Samples and shoot Treated Picture(s).

After harvested

Take pictures of the Samples by focusing your shot on the center of the Samples to be photographed. Remember to use the maximum resolution possible.

Use a red backdrop whenever possible. However, when advisable, due to the color of the product to be photographed, please use a navy blue backdrop.

Horizontal pictures:

Vertical pictures:

Control Above, Quick-Sol (Treated) Below.

Notes:
1. Do not place any poster or label when taking these pictures.
2. Carefully follow the convention indicated above.
3. When the control and treatment pictures are taken separately, both set of pictures must be shot focusing on the center from the same distance and with the sunlight illuminating at the same angle.
